Market Commentary

Though January's market volatility persisted into February, this eased over the month and the S&P 500 ended the month down 0.1%. Sentiment over the US economy improved on the back of strengthening economic data and better than expected inflation figures. Investors' attention is now focused on the release of the latest Fed minutes, with many expecting a more dovish tone. Despite the prospect of further ECB stimulus, speculation surrounded European financial stability, following sharp losses in banking stocks. Concerns remain that negative deposit rates may damage bank profitability. The STOXX 600 ended the month down 2.1%. Following the New Year holiday, sentiment surrounding China improved as comments from the PBOC governor Zhou Xiaochuan suggested the central bank saw no need for further renminbi weakness. Volatility eased, and the Shanghai Composite ended the month down 1.8%.
