Market Commentary

November was a positive month for global equity markets as the announcement of three vaccines, which proved effective against the coronavirus, boosted market sentiment. The S&P 500, FTSE 100 and Euro STOXX were all up 10.9%, 12.7% and 18.1% respectively. The rally was supported by the near conclusion of the US Presidential election but curbed by the increasing coronavirus infection rates across Europe and the US. In the UK, the Bank of England announced it would expand its asset purchase facility by a further £150 billion and the Chancellor of the Exchequer confirmed the furlough scheme would be extended until March 2021. Brent crude oil was up 24.6% over the month, lifted by hope of a coronavirus vaccine that would ease economic restrictions and increase demand. Yields on UK 10-year bonds increased by 4 basis points whilst yields on US 10-year bonds decreased by 3 basis points. The pound was up 3.1% against the US dollar and 0.4% against the euro.

Key Contributors to Return

Shares of Meggitt and Raytheon Technologies increased by 43.2% and 33.0% respectively, after encouraging results from a study of a potential Covid-19 vaccine raised hopes for a recovery in commercial aviation.

Key Detractors from Return

Progressive's shares declined by 5.2% after investors rotated out of pandemic favourites into out of favour stocks on hopeful vaccine news.
