No W8 Form on File	■	If you wish to invest in United States (US) securities or any security which has US sourced income, you will need to complete a Form W8 before Credo can accept a trading instruction. Kindly refer to MyCredo InfoHub / Guides / Form W-8BEN for further information. The document must be approved and logged by our custodian before you can submit a trade.
Buys not permitted for rebate paying share class	■	The Retail Distribution Review (RDR) was a UK-specific examination, conducted by the FCA, of the sale of investment products (including life policies, pensions, funds, and other investment schemes) to retail customers by financial advisers. RDR took effect from 31st December 2012. On this basis if RDR restrictions apply then the relevant Fund can only be sold, no purchases can be placed on an RDR restricted Fund. Funds available to Credo can be located via InfoHub/Trading/Standard Funds.

An indicative list of US PTPs can be made available upon request, but it will ultimately remain your responsibility to identify the instruments you are transacting in and whether they fall under the classification of a US PTP (whether they appear on the list or not).

Specific Securities

Cannabis Related Business (CRB) Restrictions

Background

In recent years, many US states and several international jurisdictions have relaxed cannabis enforcement or have legalised cannabis for medical and/or recreational purposes. In the EU, while laws vary by jurisdiction, an increasing number recognise certain cannabis production, supply and use as being lawful or tolerated. In Canada, medicinal and recreational use is legal. However, Cannabis-related activity remains illegal in many jurisdictions, including at the US federal level.

In the US, the federal Controlled Substances Act (CSA) governs the cannabis industry, under which cannabis remains listed as a Schedule I drug. In general, any company that manufactures, processes or distributes cannabis within the US, regardless of whether the business resides in a US state or another country where cannabis is legal, would be in violation of US federal law (i.e. CSA, 21 U.S.C. §812) unless approved by the DEA for medical use.

Permitted Securities

The only permitted securities are those purchased in the open market at Credo which are listed on either the NYSE, NASDAQ, Toronto Stock Exchange (TSX) and Toronto-Venture Exchanges (TSX Venture). Credo continues to monitor trends in CRB transactions and may impose additional restrictions or require additional information in the future. Credo also has the right to reject any deposit, regardless of the price or market.

Non-Permitted Securities

Credo restricts all trading, clearing, holding in custody of any security on the Non-Permitted Cannabis Related Business Securities list below (Annex One). In addition, the following provisions will also apply:

- Credo prohibits the opening of any accounts for the benefit of a CRB or containing assets directly derived from a CRB
- Credo reserves the right to close any accounts that it determines are connected to any CRB

- Credo will not accept the physical deposit or electronic receipt of any securities (stocks, bonds, rights, warrants, etc.) that are issued by any CRB

Grandfathered Positions

Regarding Non-Permitted CRB securities held at Credo prior to the effective date of the policy (prior to 30 November 2019), which remain under the same beneficial owner, Credo will continue to service them unless you are advised to divest the position due to additional restrictions.

However, taking on any additional positions in those same Non-Permitted CRB securities will not be permitted.

What is the actual effective date? What happens in the interim period?

Positions held as of 30 November 2019 will be considered grandfathered positions within the interim period. We shall be reviewing new transactions and reserve the right on a case-by-case basis to refuse the position and would look to you to reverse or unwind the position.
